

CHOP-02

Control Electronic Semi-Bridge or Bridge with PWM output for DC motors in open loop

The CHOP-02-105040 performs a two-way electronic control for DC motor open loop. The inversion is done by a full-bridge mosfet that provides current inversion on the engine. The operating parameters can be changed through the console. The reversal can be done by either using input opto isolation or by using a potentiometer. The chopper also performs the function of energy recovery during braking. If the engine reversal is not necessary the card comes with a single ½ bridge with or without energy recovery
